The 'Mog Support Directory

v. 2010.8.01

... wherein sundry civilian Samaritans and trained professionals offer comfort and assistance to traveling Moggers and broken Mogs.

Purpose

The purpose of this directory is to provide Unimog owners with a means of contacting other Unimog owners and businesses which support Unimogs. Whether you are broken down in an unfamiliar city and need assistance, or want to meet people along the way who share the same passion for these unique vehicles this directory will help you along the way.

These people have provided their contact information to help others and share their passion, so please be kind and do the same!

Back Cover: About the 'Mog Support Directory

Explanation of Symbols

I can provide a place to temporarily park a broken 'Mog.

I can give advice on where to go and/or what to do in my area.

I can provide directions for lost Moggers.

I'll give you some hands on help fixing your broken 'Mog.

I can give advice on how to fix a broken 'Mog.

I have some appropriate tools to repair broken 'Mogs.

I want to be called by, and potentially meet, Moggers who are "passing through" my area, even when they do not have any problems.

Support On The Web

Unimog Mailing List

URL:

<http://www.tx4x4.com/mog.html>

Information:

While the idea behind a mailing list may be old, there is nothing shabby about the support from this group. An incredibly powerful resource! Easy to sign up, and free!

BenzWorld

URL:

<http://www.benzworld.org/forums/unimog/>

Information:

The Unimog section of the Benz World website is an excellent resource. Post new material, ask questions, or search the thousands of previous topics. You will likely find what you are looking for.

Steel Soldiers

URL:

<http://www.steelsoldiers.com/unimogs/>

Information:

Steel Soldiers is a very large Military Vehicle forum, which you can find some Unimog owners on. While the majority of owners are US Military enthusiasts, all are extremely friendly and helpful, and always willing to lend a hand to someone in need.

Rocky Mountain Moggers

URL:

<http://www.rockymountainmoggers.com/>

Information:

The Rocky Mountain Moggers website has been around for a long time, it has a huge amount of information compiled into an easy to use website. Links, data, how-to's etc.

About The Directory

The original Unimog Support Directory was created years ago by Mike Hiscox to be used as a tool for traveling 'Mog owners. An invaluable tool to anyone on the road. Whether they are in need of help or just want to meet up with fellow owners and share stories, that is something only this directory can provide on this scale.

While I might be the one who sits down and puts it all together, in the end it is owners like yourself who make this Directory truly useful. The only thing I ask in return is for you to spread the word to other owners. The more people who end up in the Directory the better!

The Directory, Unimogs and Myself

I am a relatively new 'Mogger, so let me take you back to early 2009 shortly after I had purchased my first Unimog. I met up Bill Stauffer of Headliner Express in Orlando at a local Mercedes car show. He had asked me if I had heard of the Mog Support Directory, and I said no. He pulled out a copy from under his 404's seat and handed it to me. After thumbing through and getting a quick rundown, I was absolutely blown away. I couldn't believe that all of these people were offering total support to what essentially could be a total stranger; It didn't take long to for me to figure out these group of owners were something special. I had been a part of many automotive groups, but nothing like this. Everyone so friendly and helpful, perhaps something that came from owning such rare and unique vehicles. Needless to say I wanted in on this Directory. I found the file on the Rocky Mountain Moggers website, only to find that it was several years out of date. I contacted the original creator, Mike Hiscox, and asked if I could help out updating the directory. I was delighted when I got a very positive response back. I probed the Mailing List to gauge interest and again received positive input. Needless to say I decided to get to work. The rest is history. I am happy I can be a part of a community such as this, and give everyone something they can use in times of need or just recreation. Always happy to help!

Godspeed and happy 'Mogging,
Jack Miles
